County strike focuses on fairgrounds

Insults at fairgrounds strike rally

PLEASANTON — Striking county workers held an hour-long rally at the main entrance of the Fairgrounds yesterday to protest the "inaction" of supervisors to begin negotiations which could end the walk-out, a union spokesman said.

The protest rally began about 11 a.m. to coincide with a planned press conference by Supervisor John Murphy concerning the current status of negotiations.

One protest leader after another stood upon the bed of a pick-up truck in front of the entrance and hurled insults and rhetorical questions at management personnel, whom they claim are continuing the strike by refusing to negotiate.

Randall Prevo, general manager and a negotiator for Service Employees International Union Local No. 616, claimed the supervisors refuse to begin negotiations until the union reduces its demands.

"The rally was called to remind members of the importance of the strike, to push negotiations forward, and let management and the people know of the strike's continuance," Prevo said yesterday.

Asked whether the rally had brought the start of negotiations closer, Prevo replied, "There's some stirring." He added that he had no information directly concerning the start of negotiations, but that his were "feelings" of what was going to happen.

Prevo said he heard estimates of up to 300 at yesterday's rally, but police officials believed the crowd totaled only about 100.

Protest leaders called on supervisors to begin negotiations without further delay, demanding an end to the strike.

City advisors meet tonight

LIVERMORE — The internal building design of the multi-service center to be built with federal funds at the Civic Center Site along S. Livermore Avenue will be discussed at the social concerns committee meeting tonight.

Members will meet starting at 7:30 in the Leahy Square meeting room. The social concerns committee meetings are open to the public.

Tweaks President

Candidate risking jail for a point

SAN RAMON — Presidential candidate R.C. Collins — who has received only $159.22 in campaign funds this year — is courting a $10,000 fine and imprisonment.

Collins has refused to submit his monthly report of expenditures and expenses to the Federal Election Commission (FEC) as required by law.

Instead, he sent the report to President Gerald R. Ford and the media.

Collins is taking the risk to set a legal precedent, he said. Of course, there's always the possibility of a presidential pardon if charges are brought by the commission, he said.

The 52-year old San Ramon resident is also protesting what he calls

Murray School consultant warns of future enrollment

Murray School District could drop an average 100 students per year the next five years, according to enrollment projections worked up by Alan Richards, hired to plot the district's future.

Richards' figures, presented to the district's citizens advisory committee last night, indicate Murray could drop as many as 800 enrollment in the next 10 years.

Murray started 1975-76 with 5,458 students in nine elementary school facilities.

Donlon, a K-8 school in Pleasanton, presently has the largest enrollment (1,290) and greatest square footage (48,185 square feet) of any district school. It is one of five schools with no available classrooms, the others at maximum use being Cronin, Lydiksen, Nielsen and Wells.

In reviewing his preliminary enrollment projections, Richards said there seems to be a tendency for the move-outs to be in the middle grades.

Teamsters elect 'Fitz'

LAS VEGAS (AP) — With all the hoopla of a national political convention, the Teamsters elected Frank E. Fitzsimmons by acclamation Wednesday as head of the nation's largest union for five more years.

There was no opposition and the entire process took only seven minutes.

The 2,300 convention delegates, most of them salaried local officials, blew whistles, rattled noisemakers and generally shouted, cheered and stamped their approval.

Banners, placards and other political paraphernalia proclaiming "Fitz 76" filled the floor and balconies of the meeting hall, but they were not directed at swaying any delegate votes. Support for Fitzsimmons and the union's entire executive board was without dissent.

John H. Cleveland, president of Teamsters Joint Council 55 in Washington, D.C., was elected the union's sixteenth general vice-president, a new post created by the convention.

I was looking forward to the interview. Here would be some crusty fellow, typical character of the old west, knew a hundred yarns, tough as nails, just the perfect character to brighten up our readers' day.

After a few well-done driving maneuvers through the fields east of Hopyard, we drove up to a short wiry man wearing plain pants, checked shirt, and a bright red baseball cap with the legend "Boomtown" across the front of it.

"Well, he's not exactly the crusty old type I expected, but he looks like he knows his sheep. Solid working class, possibly a descendent of the original Azores shepherders," I thought.

"Are you the shepherd here," I asked.

"No speak English," he said.

"Is there anyone who can?"

He pointed in the direction of the small trailer where he has been living.

"Look, Pete, we'll go to the trailer and I'll get my interview. You shoot a picture of him in front of the sheep," I said.

It took some doing. The man didn't understand where we were from. Pete held up a cardboard sign from his dashboard. It said, "Official Valley Times". That made it worse.

"Official", said the man. He looked worried.

"It looks like he thinks he'll get a one way ticket back to Mexico," I told Pete.

"No official," said Pete to the Judge Barber lifts picketing injunction, calls meeting today

Alameda County Bureau
OAKLAND — Presiding Superior Court Judge Robert K. Barber yesterday temporarily dissolved his own injunction against striking county employees who have been picketing the fairgrounds in Pleasanton.

After more than an hour's deliberation in chambers, Judge Barber instructed attorneys for the unions and the fair board to return at 10:30 this morning with more arguments on the case.

Leaders of the striking Service Employees International Union locals said at an earlier press conference that they would follow their lawyers' advice should a temporary restraining order be issued.

The picketing has curtailed construction and prep-work for the fair, scheduled to start in 10 days. Fair Board General Manager Lee Hall has said the board must decide by tomorrow if the fair will open as scheduled.

"We're interested in getting productive talks going," said union spokesman John Bowers, who added it's "safe to say if nothing happens from the board today, we're going to have to escalate the strike. We would like to keep these things (details of the escalation) a surprise for the board."

Union attorneys argued that picketing, even by government employees, is legal.

Meanwhile, incumbent Supervisor John D. Murphy lashed out at the striking locals, claiming they "have unleashed a vendetta against me personally." He also charged his challenger in this November's general election, Valerie Raymond, with refusing to take a stand on the 16-day-old strike.

Judge Barber issued a temporary restraining order against the pickets Tuesday after hearing arguments by John Cantwell, a private attorney hired by the fair board.

But the presiding judge ordered another hearing for yesterday when the unions protested that they were not represented in the first day's deliberations.

Cantwell and his associate, Stephen McKae, told the judge the fair is being "victimized by these picket lines," and has "involuntarily become a part of this strike."

It is "within the state's police powers" to enjoin the pickets," he claimed.

But labor attorneys Peter Nussbaum and Stuart Weinberg said the question is a "procedural one" that falls outside the jurisdiction of the court.

Citing case law precedent, the two argued that the strike is a "secondary boycott" and falls under the jurisdiction of the National Labor Relations Board, and not the courts. The county "controls the fair operation through the budget process" Nussbaum argued, yet county counsel has refused to seek its own injunction or to represent the fair board.

"If the county thought it were so threatened by this strike, it would have sought an injunction, and surely would have represented the fair board in this matter," he said.

In recinding his order Judge Barber ordered attorneys for both sides to come forward this morning and argue over his court's jurisdiction, and who else may legally seek and injunction.

"I want you to answer two questions," said the judge. "If the picketing at the fair grounds is an unfair labor practice under the NLRB...does that oust this court from jurisdiction? Or can there be concurrent jurisdiction?"

Furthermore, "if this strike is illegal, what persons, if any, other than the board of supervisors, can seek to enjoin the picketing?"

The judge called on county counsel, who until now have offered only legal advice and not argued before the bench, to "give the court any help on that question."

Following a rally that appeared coincidental with Murphy's press conference in his fairgrounds office, union leaders said they "came out to show that picketing the fairgrounds is still strong."

Union leader Dave Kramer said pickets at the fairgrounds are a "point of leverage" with the county in negotiations.

"As long as poor people and the people on welfare are affected," he said, "they (the board of supervisors) will let this strike go on forever. Pressure will bring it to an end soon."

But Murphy, sitting in his office with the din of the rally in the background, said the unions had singled him out personally "forcing me to provide some factual data and comment."

Flyers urging a "vote for anybody but Murphy" were passed out illegally within 100 feet of polling places in Fremont last week, he said. Police were called "to warn anti-Murphy picketers" although no arrests were made.

He thinks he has been singled out personally, "because they think I'm vulnerable. But I've been endorsed by the building trades unions, steel workers, retail clerks and the teamsters. Nobody who is anti-union gets those endorsements."

"The personal attacks on me — I have to expect as part of my job representing taxpayers in the county," he said in a press release. "The attacks on the fair, a non-county operation, emphasize the lie that the strike is not against the people of the county."

"I think it ironic that my opponent...is so vocally silent now. Great leadership qualities are exemplified by her stand in this dispute. Silence."

"She's not getting into the pond because she might get wet," he added.

Raymond could not be reached for comment.

No progress has been made in the strike, Murphy said, adding he thought it would be over last week after Memorial Day and pay day.

He and other board members have met "unofficially" with union representatives, but nothing has come of their meetings.

Zone 7 water plants miss strike force

LIVERMORE — The strike by Alameda County workers has so far had limited effect upon the operation of Zone 7's two water treatment plants, zone manager Mun Mar told the Zone 7 Board of Directors last night.

The Patterson Pass and Del Valle water treatment facilities operate on around-the-clock schedule. Mar said that supervisory personnel have been able to cover the operation without interruption.

He said the operation at both plants works well now, but has caused problems in the zone office at the Alameda County site in Hayward since office personnel have been transferred to the treatment plants.

Mar said no major problems are anticipated unless there are significant breakdowns in the plants.

Valley First says Murphy's first

PLEASANTON — The Valley First Committee decided formally yesterday to work for the re-election of John Murphy in November.

Established this spring to push for Zone 7 candidates favorable to the developers and ranching interests, the VFC will incorporate as a non-profit public concerns committee.

Savoring their success in backing two of the three winning zone candidates, the VFC met yesterday to reorganize their membership and plan for the fall elections.

Dagmar Fulton, retaining chairmanship of the committee, said the VFC will work to "keep our interests truly represented by the Constitution and our present form of government."

Fulton had announced independently that the VFC would back John Murphy in the November run-off against Valerie Raymond, and her stand was formally adopted by the committee yesterday.

The committee decided not to interview Raymond before announcing its support of Murphy on the grounds that such an action would be hypocritical when the committee's opinion is already well known.

Reviewing Murphy's primary performance, the committee agreed that Murphy's failure to campaign actively, his late advertising thrust, and the poor management of his Pleasanton campaign office by Joyce LeClaire were principally responsible for Murphy's tiny winning margin.

Fulton noted that Murphy is not a good campaigner, and suggested that the VFC might mount a victory squad to campaign on his behalf.

Murphy needs a well-organized small group to hold coffees, campaign, and do the things the candidate would normally do," Fulton said.

Despite the presence of Republican Jim Mills, challenging Democrat Pete Stark for the Ninth Congressional seat, the VFC established a policy of non-involvement in partisan contests.

Looking ahead to the zone race in 1978 when four seats will be up for grabs, it was noted that directors Joseph Concannon and George Lydskens probably will not run for re-election.

Committee member Dorothy Sladky said she hoped Tom Schweser might take "another crack" at the race in 1978. Schweser was the third candidate backed by the VFC. He placed sixth in the eight-man race this year.

Sladky reported to the committee that Taubman Company of Hayward, builders of the proposed Stoneridge Shopping Center in Pleasanton, as members of the VFC, had made an $800 donation to the committee's treasury.

At a public hearing last week, Fulton made a presentation on behalf of the VFC in favor of the Stoneridge overcrossing.

Fulton stressed that the committee's stand was taken independent of and prior to the receipt of the Taubman contribution.

The committee set the first Wednesday of each month, 7:30 a.m. at Villa Armando in Pleasanton as the time and place of its meetings.

Rescue fails, two more die

PLEASANTON — Two persons drowned in the Arroyo Del Valle behind Shadow Cliffs yesterday, exactly 24 hours after a 16-year-old boy drowned in the lake, an East Bay Regional Parks District spokesman reported.

Lenair Chess Jr., 9, of 9838 Bernhardt Drive, and Caroline M. Grier, 34, of 950 Blenheim St., both of Oakland, were pronounced dead on arrival at Valley Memorial Hospital following the accident.

According to the EBRPD spokesman, Lenair and Ms. Grier and Lenair's mother were fishing about 11:20 a.m. yesterday in the Arroyo Del Valle, a creek ranging in width from 100 yards to 1/4 of a mile wide, behind a levee south of Shadow Cliffs.

The spokesman said the boy apparently became bored and wandered off down the shore. A short time later, he was yelling for help off-shore. Ms. Grier ran towards him and jumped in the creek, put the youth on her back but sank as she attempted to swim to shore.

Mrs. Chess jumped into the creek to help the pair, but she too began to sink and was rescued by Rodney Stribling, 18, of 918 Ventura Ave. in Livermore.

Sheriff's department divers recovered the body of Ms. Grier, and lifeguards found young Lenair's body. Both were pronounced dead a short time later.

There was no report on the condition of Mrs. Chess, the spokesman added.

Monday, Paul Gerard Cherolis of Pleasanton died while attempting to swim out to a stalled radio-controlled model boat.

Bicentennial parade set for June 27

PLEASANTON — They'll be coming from as far away as San Bernardino and the emphasis will be on the bicentennial, music and happy days.

It's the Bicentennial-theme parade June 27 that will feature at least 400 musicians, three of the biggest floats to ever appear in a California parade, a bevy of local personalities and marching units and grand marshal Spike Jones, Jr., a nationally-known entertainer who is scheduled to appear at the Fair the first week.

There'll also be three honorary grand marshalls — long-time valley residents from Pleasanton, Livermore and Dublin.

At last count, parade organizers Lee Ann McFadden and Nancy D'Arcy had nearly 200 entries for the Sunday, June 27 parade that starts at 12 noon.

Awards will be made in 42 categories, include nine Jaycee Bicentennial Purse sections. Awards will be made at 4 p.m. on the 27th at Amador Valley Community Park.

New roads approved by Hopyard

PLEASANTON — The city council approved the configurations for two future roads east of Hopyard Road Monday.

One road was the eastern extension of Stoneridge Drive. The approved map does not show a specific eastern terminus because development in the that area is many years away.

The other road is the frontage road along I-580 from Hopyard to Santa Rita Roads.

Pleasanton looks at budget

PLEASANTON — The Pleasanton Joint School District board of trustees will conduct a special meeting tonight on the 1976-77 budget, starting at 7:30 in the district offices at 123 Main St.

Primary concern will be areas that might have to be cut in lieu of the recent revenue limit increase measure that was turned down by the electorate.

Although a specific list of cuts has not been formalized, the board has already reviewed many areas for reduction and/or elimination. Included in this review, which will be updated tonight, are:

Extension of the walking area an additional one-fourth mile, further reductions in library services, further reductions in allocations of funds for school supplies and materials, elimination of instrumental music program, reduction or elimination of special services for reading, speech therapy, psychological services and health services, elimination of funds for audio-visual services (instructional films, film strips, instructional television, etc.), further reduction of custodial services, further reduction in grounds maintenance, abolishing of the Environmental Education Program (Outdoor Education), and elimination of towel service.

The district, as a whole, is expected to drop in enrollment by a relative handful of students.

However, as the district pointed out at innumerable information sessions prior to the ballot, the costs of running the district continue to increase.

All elementary schools have eliminated instructional aides from the regular program and the work day for all school library clerks has been reduced 25 percent. The district also

After a wild ride across the fields, we finally got over to Santa Rita Road and came on a wonderful sight to behold — the most majestic flock of sheep this side of the Pyrennes. "Shoot a picture of it just in case the editor wants a second shot to run with the story," I said.

But before Peter could reply, "what story?", he spotted a column of smoke. "There's a house burning over there. Let's get on it!"

"I feel like we're starring in a new TV adventure series about two reporters named Griffithward and McNicolstein," I said. "Isn't this carrying the new Age of the Journalism Celebrity too far?"

As we neared the column of smoke, Peter said, "Hey, that's in my neighborhood." Wow, I thought, what if...no, it couldn't.

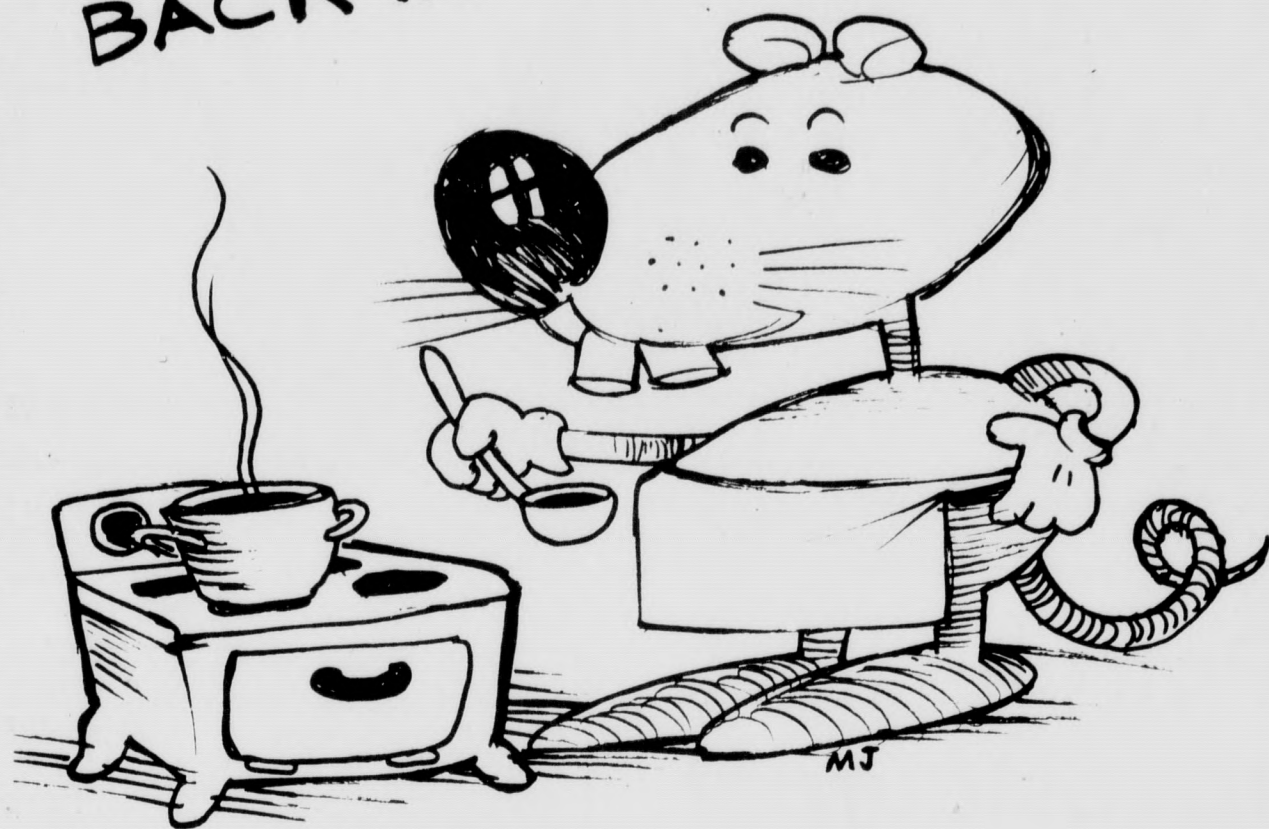

As we rounded a corner, our fears were much relieved. Turned out to be a grass fire set by kids playing with matches or fireworks, burned about 100 square feet, but it sure did produce smoke.

Nearly left by summer exodus

Rat duo finds new friends

By PAT KENNEDY

On Saturday, Honky and Middleton began to realize the truth. They were trapped in their cages at the school. They were out of food and running low on water.

Two days ago, the Mouse family and Harry the Hamster and all the fish had gone home with the kids for summer vacation.

But nobody had taken Honky and Middleton. They were forgotten. Honky and Middleton were neighbors at Rincon School.

Middleton was a round little rat with black and white spotted fur that always looked raggedy. He had a round black face and pointed black ears.

Middleton's cage was as messy-looking as he was. Food and torn bits of paper were scattered around his cage. But he was too busy checking out the world from his upstairs cage to bother about the mess.

Middleton could look out the long window next to his cage, into the school courtyard. He could watch the children come in and put their things in their cubbyholes. That is, until the last day of school, when they had cleaned out their cubbies, waved goodbye to him and left.

Honky was a lean, pure white rat who kept himself in very good shape. He ran on his exercise wheel three times a day. Afterwards, he would lick his beautiful white fur and tidy up his cage.

His eyes were pink, which meant light hurt them and he couldn't see very well. Middleton would tell him what was going on in the classroom being cleaned out.

All the books had been put away in closets. All the papers that were usually scattered around had been thrown out. The chairs had been set on top of the tables.

And on Friday, a janitor had been through with a big, loud vacuum cleaner, making the carpet blue again.

Middleton had watched a boy come along with a pail of water and scrub the window next to his cage.

"Help. Let us out," both rats had pleaded, climbing up the sides of the cage and sticking out their wiggling noses. But the boy only smiled at them and turned away to wash off the big purple door.

Sunday was worse than Saturday. Honky and Middleton could hardly sleep because of the growling of their empty stomachs. They used their last bit of strength to try to push open the doors to their cages. "If only we shared the same cage," Honky grunted. "Then we could push it open together."

It was the only time Honky wished he were living with that sloppy Middleton.

The rats cried themselves to sleep that night, thinking what a horrible thing it was to be left alone in a classroom to die.

Monday morning, they were so weak they could hardly lift their heads when somebody came into the room and turned on the light. "Probably another janitor," thought Honky.

But Middleton whispered to him that it was Claudia, that nice little teacher who helped the kids take care of the animals. Claudia walked right by them. She went straight to the phone. She talked to somebody for a minute, hung up and sighed.

"Well," she said to the rats.

"Thank goodness I don't have to take care of you all summer."

"I guess this is it," said Honky. "I guess she's going to feed us to a snake. Or a cat."

"Huh," Middleton said bravely. "No snake would want us, we're so bony from hunger."

They heard the sound of children's voices, a few minutes later. Middleton recognized Rachel, a first grader. Behind her was her brother, Kevin, who was a big kid going into fifth grade.

"Wow," said Kevin. "One for each of us. Can we have them both, Mommy?"

"We can put the black-and-white one in FatRat's old cage," Rachel added. "FatRat died of cancer," she said to Middleton.

Middleton wasn't sure he wanted to use the cage of somebody who had died of cancer. He bit Kevin when he tried to take Middleton out of his cage.

Then he saw that Rachel was lifting Honky's big cage — the one with the fancy exercise wheel — down from the table Honky looked happy.

"Well, all right," Middleton said, and crawled into Kevin's hand.

Now Middleton lives in FatRat's fancy cage on Kevin's dresser. Honky lives across the way next to Rachel's bed.

And they are going to be fat little rats by the time school starts in the fall.

Livermore calls joint meet to discuss mutual problems

LIVERMORE — Topics of "mutual interest to the City of Livermore and the Livermore Area Recreation and Park District" will be discussed at a joint meeting between city council members and District board members tonight.

The special meeting will be held at the LARPD offices, 71 Trevano Road, starting at 7:30 p.m.

Although the official agenda records the "mutual interest topics" as the general discussion item for the meeting, an accompanying list of 10 suggested topics has been submitted by LARPD General Manager Bill Payne.

These are the Ravenswood Restoration project; current neighborhood park development; use of the city park tax fund for maintenance and operation; Vets Memorial building; Greenville North Swim Club; Dogwood Park; bike trail on Robert Livermore Park frontage; Trevano Road status; park development fees status; and Oak Knoll Pioneer Memorial Park addition status.

"This list is not necessarily inclusive but does represent most of the subjects that have been brought up over the past few months," Payne notes.

Music recital set at Nazarene Church

Saturday, June 19 at 3 p.m. the Community Music Studio will present piano and voice students of Eugene Masluk in a recital in the Church of the Nazarene in Livermore.

The program will open with the younger pianists playing ensemble music for four and eight hands on two pianos.

Following these duets and quartets of folk and patriotic music will be advanced students playing works of Grieg, Chopin, Gershwin, Prokofiev and voice students singing famous arias from operas of Rossini, Verdi and Mozart.

The highlight of the recital will be the "Carnival of the Animals," a zoological fantasy for two pianos by Saint-Saens. This piece will be presented by the adult students of the C.M.S. Each number will be preceded by descriptive verses of Ogden Nash recited by Dr. David Gordon.

The public is invited to the admission-free presentation.

Auditions slated for summer play

The Livermore Musical Theatre announces auditions for their summer production of "Guys & Dolls."

Auditions will be open to the public and be held on June 22 and 23 at 7 p.m. in Granada High School's Little Theatre.

Those auditioning will be asked to sing, dance and read from the script. For the vocal try outs, participants should be prepared to sing a song from the musical score.

In addition to those interested in the performance aspect of the show, persons interested in playing in the orchestra, costuming, make-up, stagecraft, lighting or publicity are requested to contact Sue Cupps, 447-5091 or Julie Ward, 447-2842.

Music and script auditions can be obtained in advance by also calling the above number.

Councilman likes bike trail in spite of vote

PLEASANTON — Councilman William Herlihy made it perfectly clear that he does not oppose bike trails, despite his vote against approving expenditure of state funds for a Hopland Road bike path Monday night.

Herlihy told The Times he really should have abstained on the vote. His real objection was not the $19,000 in state park bond funds, but rather the lack of a map during the staff presentation on the item.

Without a map there was no way of telling whether any trees were in the path of the bike route or just how the route would be oriented to the trees, said Herlihy.

Teenage dance planned at recreation center

LIVERMORE — The Perry Players Band from Fremont will provide the music for a Teen Dance planned at the Recreation Center, 8th and H streets,

The dance will be sponsored by the Livermore Area Recreation and Park District and will be held from 8 to 11 p.m. Refreshments will be available and the cost is 25 cents per person.

For Livermore seniors

City approves diagonal parking

LIVERMORE — Out of consideration for senior citizens who frequent the Recreation Center, the city council has approved diagonal parking for the creation of additional parking spaces along G and H streets.

Diagonal parking will be allowed only along the west side of G Street and east side of H Street as they run between Seventh and Eighth streets. The diagonal parking will be immediately adjacent to the Recreation Center.

Public Works Director Dan Lee generally recommended diagonal parking not be allowed in the vicinity of the Recreation Center because of safety considerations. Cars must back out into traffic, he explained, and also noted that "public streets are primarily for the purpose of conveying traffic rather than for parking purposes."

However, the council was told by Livermore Area Recreation and Park District representative Dee Manning that from 350 to 400 seniors use the Recreation Center on Sunday afternoons — a factor that influenced its decision to create additional parking along G and H streets.

LARPD also had suggested G Street be converted into a parking lot with one-way traffic (similar to the J Street Mall). This idea, however, was not supported by the council.

Rebekahs announce breakfast

A pancake breakfast will be served from 8 a.m. to 1 p.m. at the Odd Fellows Temple Sunday, June 20 by the Livermore Rebekah Lodge No. 154.

The Rebekahs will dish up hot dogs and beans for their June 30 meeting at 6:30 p.m. at the temple, followed by bingo games.

Cindy Laudeman, president of the Theta Rho Assembly of California, will be honored at a July 10 reception at the Livermore Veterans Memorial Building.

Japanese Americans meet

The local chapter of the Japanese American Citizens League (JACL) will honor charter members and install new officers Friday, June 18 at Shannon Community Center in Dublin.

Assemblyman Floyd Mori will be the keynote speaker, with James Murakami, national JACL president, serving as installing officer.

A family potluck dinner at 7 p.m. will precede the meeting, with Dr. Harry Hatasaka as master of ceremonies. An invocation will be given by the Rev. Jim Griffes of John Knox Presbyterian Church.

Hello out there

A group of the gang at Smorga Bob's at 4193 First St. in Livermore want to tell you all about the new happenings at the popular smorgasbord restaurant. Beginning Tuesday, July 6, breakfast will be served daily Monday through Saturday. Sunday Brunch will be as usual. Pictured above are Yong Kim, Carl Penny, Jackie Corey and Martin Bowers.

Juanita Ruiz, owner of Galeria Ruiz of Pleasanton, who oversaw the decor of the new Mexican restaurant in Livermore, "El Vaquero," surveys her beautiful handiwork with Louis Hevia of La Fonda Restaurant in San Jose, who was consultant to the new restaurant's owners.

Patrons flock to restaurant

The warm amber glow of the wrought iron lamps, the bright pictures and tilmas on the wall carry the theme of the sign outside the front door. "Buen Venidos" — "Welcome." "Manana" has finally come for "El Vaquero" Mexican Restaurant on Third and L Streets in Livermore. The lines of patrons haven't stopped forming since the doors opened one week ago.

Everything is attractively served and piping hot.

The restaurant is the result of a blending of amateur talents who have never been in the food business, but who had the know-how to seek out the proper expert guidance. The idea for "El Vaquero" ("The Cowboy") was born out of an overwhelming yen for Mexican food that overtook a group of Livermore friends one night last November.

They couldn't believe that here, in the land of Amador, that there wasn't one place to get Mexican food. What else was there to do but try their luck at building and starting one themselves?

So the chemist, the physicist, the lab workers, the pharmacist, the public relations expert and luckily the C.P.A. formed the MASSA Corporation and took in ten couples or twenty partners. They bought the old Gentlemen Jim's hamburger place and have succeeded in transforming it into the attractive place it now is.

With the help of Louis

Hevia, owner of San Jose's La Fonda Restaurant and the Tico Taco Drive-ins as consultant, and Juanita Ruiz, owner of Galeria Ruiz of Pleasanton as decorator, the "professional" men put on laborer's togs and started to nail, hammer, paint and cuss a little to see their dream come true.

Eighteenth Century Faire

Dublin forges big July 4 celebration

By REINA WHITNEY

This country of ours deserves more than just a one-day celebration for its grand '76 birthday party. Or so thinks the Dublin-San Ramon Bicentennial Committee under the chairmanship of Bob Elliott, who made a commitment to bring the Heritage of '76 coupled with Festival USA to community.

The festival, known as "An 18th Century Faire," will be held at the Shannon Community Center and Park in Dublin on July 3, 4 and 5. The committee members hope to recreate an 18th Century setting, complete with dress, food, customs, games, exhibits and merriment of that era.

Organizations, schools, and individuals have been responding to help the committee forge this event into a true community celebration.

Glass-blowers, sandstone carvers, and the spinning wheels of the Valley Weavers and Spinners will be there. The Valley Craft Guild is busily making toys of wood and rag dolls such as our great-great-grandparents once enjoyed.

Friends of the Library will have for sale the distinctive hand-made bonnets and pinafores once used by the pioneers.

Butter churning, gold panning, candlemaking and soap making will all help to accentuate Heritage '76.

The ethnic origins of the melting pot which is America will also be celebrated in all aspects of the entertainment features planned.

Saturday night an all-Western hoedown with Chuck Wayne and the Country Cut-ups, will raise the roof at Shannon Center. The Eagle Squares, a local square dance group will also add to the entertainment of the evening being offered for the nominal price of 75 cents a person.

Sunday, the San Leandro Community Band will fill the air with an old-fashioned band concert.

And what's a Fourth of July picnic without a political speech? Nothing, says the committee which has invited Representative "Pete" Stark to fill in this important gap with an authentic barn-storming speech.

Sunday's entertainment will also feature Portuguese dancers and a song festival of 100 black gospel singers.

Monday will be devoted to our Mexican heritage. LASSO Centro of Livermore has promised a delicious Mexican dinner. There will be entertainment by the Ballet Folklorico of Livermore throughout the day.

Maid of Dublin Angela Rosas will honor the fair with her presence, lending to the entertainment a song or two.

Organizations or individuals interested in having an exhibition booth, or food booth may still pick up application blanks at the Dublin Chamber of Commerce, 828-6200. Judy Clawson is in charge of all food booths. She may be reached at 828-0159.

Ranger Severietti introduces Smokey the Bear to youngsters in Pleasanton as part of a special fire prevention program.

Smokey the Bear appears in person

Smokey the Bear has been making personal appearances in kindergarten and first-grade classrooms in Pleasanton to encourage the youngsters to practice good safety rules.

The Pleasanton Junior Women's Club is working with Ranger Ellis Severietti, Sunol Department of Forestry, in presenting Smokey the Bear Fire Prevention Programs at the various elementary schools.

Severietti introduces himself to the children and shows a series of slides in conjunction with fire prevention. The Juniors, working as team teachers, organize groups of small children to discuss Smokey's rules on fire, playing with matches, etc.

The program is being presented to the schools as Ranger Severietti feels extreme fire danger exist this year due to excessive dryness. He wants children and their parents to be extra careful when camping and picnicing this summer.

Art, Wine and The Vineyards converge

The quiet beauty of the Livermore vineyards and surrounding hills south of the city have long been an inspiration to valley artists.

This year, as in the past three years,

Art, Wine and The Vineyards converge for a day as the Livermore Art Association presents its annual "Art in the Vineyard" show at the Concannon Vineyards Sunday, June 20

The public is invited to spend a relaxing afternoon under the large shade trees of the Concannon courtyard, sip select table wines of the vineyard, and mingle with performing artists and craftsmen from noon to 5 p.m. Wines to be served are 1975 Moselle, 1975 Zinfandel Rose, and 1972 Petite Sirah.

Many of the valley's professional and non-professional artists will exhibit paintings in oil, watercolor and acrylic. Framed works, as well as unframed and unmatted paintings, will be offered for sale.

An informal art fair will feature booths selling pottery, dough art, jewelry, zipper art, stitchery, sculpture, macrame and mixed media. Artists and craftsmen will participate in continuous demonstrations of their particular media and technique.

The popular Wayside Weavers and Spinners will entertain bystanders with a "Fleece to Fiber" demonstration in which unprocessed fleece will be naturally dyed and handspun into yarn. The yarn will then be crocheted into a free-form shawl. The charm of the demonstration will be heightened by the authentic costumes and instruments employed.

Continuous musical entertainment will be provided by "The Illusions," a female trio singing Western and popular numbers, Terry Owen of Livermore with folk songs on the guitar, and "The Rhythm Rogues," a young instrumental ensemble.

Children are not forgotten. Dorothy Gordon will sketch children's portraits in charcoal free of charge, and the Laughing Cricket Puppet Theater returns for an encore at the vineyards.

Pleasanton artist feted

The accomplishments of Artist Phyllis Couper of Pleasanton will be toasted at a champagne reception Friday, June 18 from 7 to 10 p.m. at Franklin Savings and Loan Association, Main Street office. Phyllis was instrumental in founding the Valley Artists of Dublin, and is a charter member of that organization. She is also active in the Pleasanton Art League, and teaches oil painting to children at the Pleasanton Cultural Arts Center. She has studied fine arts at the University of Denver, the University of Alaska and Diablo Valley College. Her paintings will be displayed at Franklin Savings through the summer.

By AL FISCHER

The colonial America of Thomas Jefferson, from the time he was a plantation owner's son through his career as a lawyer and politician, is nowhere better exemplified than in "The Eye of Jefferson," occupying the National Gallery of Art in Washington, D.C. through Sept. 6.

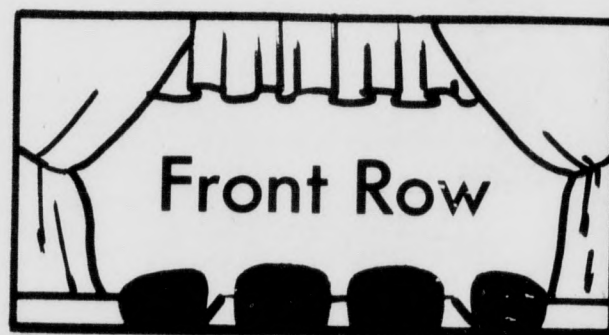

Our visit to the national gallery came quite by accident during the course of a vacation spent in Philadelphia, D.C., and points east. For those valleyites going east this summer, the exhibition should rank high on points of interest — though we would otherwise dissuade one from attempting to do the complete tourist scene of Washington or Philadelphia.

Especially between now and the Fourth of July.

The exhibition, documenting Jefferson's life-long interest in the visual arts, is divided into three major sections: his American background; his European experience; and, the range of his own creative genius in architecture, design, and landscaping.

Of all the founding fathers, Jefferson stands alone in his commitment to the fine arts. His aesthetic vision paralleled his political insight; just as he aided in establishing national independence, he set new standards for the art of our country.

A bust of Jefferson by Jean-Antoine Houdon is the initial object d'arte viewed upon entering the National Art Gallery. The bust characterizes Jefferson's forceful personality and remarkable intelligence. The work by Houdon was done in 1789 when Jefferson, then 46 years old, was minister to France.

Each section of the gallery is devoted to a different period of Jefferson's life. In the "Virginia: Land of Promise" exhibit area, the furnishings are similar to those that might have been at Shadwell and Tuckahoe, houses where the Jeffersons lived. This section illustrates the range of social and intellectual opportunities Jefferson had as a young man.

Other sections deal with science and exploration — both in America and Europe Jefferson moved with ease among the great intellectuals, many of whose portraits are exhibited — the revolutionary period, Europe, French architecture, a collection of Jefferson plants, the University of Virginia epoch, Barboursville (a house

Sommerfest is coming!

The Barn at Livermore becomes a Bavarian beer garden for Sommerfest '76, a popular celebration of Old World food and folk dancing set Saturday, June 20.

Sponsored as the major fund-raising project for the Livermore Cultural Arts Council, Sommerfest is open to the public from 6 to 11:30 p.m. Traditional favorites at Sommerfest are Jo Smiells' Bavarian Band, the Von Kinsky Dancers of Dublin, and sausages, sauerkraut and strudel.

Tickets may be purchased in advance from Marshall Kamena at 447-3535, at the Lawrence Livermore Laboratory RLRA, or The Squire on Second Street. Admission is $2 for adults and $1 for senior citizens or children under 16 years of age.

The Marionette Theatre of the Word, founded by Roland and Verna Sylvester, comes to Our Saviour Lutheran Church June 24.

Jefferson designed for his friend Gov. James Barbour of Virginia), and "The British Connection."

The statuary in the exhibition is phenomenal. The most celebrated of all ancient statues of the goddess of love dominates the Antiquity section. Praised as the ideal of feminine beauty, the Greco-Roman statue Venus de' Medici is named for its former owners, the Florentine Medici family.

Jefferson, who knew this original marble only through engravings, ranked it the most desirable of all the works he wished to own in copy.

The National Art Gallery is open daily, usually until 9 in the evening. For the casual tourist, it is quite a shock to be strolling down Pennsylvania Avenue amidst the fortresses of power and happen upon the gallery. But it is an evening well spent.

MARQUEE — The Amador Valley summer school program will include the production of a musical play, "How to Succeed in Business Without Really Trying." The play went into rehearsal yesterday with the class meeting in the music room at Amador Valley High. Adele Denney will direct. Civic Arts Repertory in Walnut Creek will open "Of Thee I Sing" July 9 at the civic theater. It will play weekends through August 14. Ticket information is available through Civic Arts Association, 1641 Locust St., Walnut Creek.

Religious theater features puppets

In the manner of Medieval drama, a religious play written for puppets entitled "And the Blind Shall See" will be presented at Our Saviour Lutheran Church of Livermore Thursday, June 24.

The hour-long 7:30 p.m. performance by the Marionette Theatre of the Word is based on selected events of the ministry of Christ in which he encountered physical and spiritual blindness. Much of the play's action revolves around the search for Christ by the blind beggar, Bartimaeus.

Performed with 20 marionettes, scaled to one-third life size, and 18 hand puppets, the production combines traditional and contemporary, and appeals to both adults and children. The production incorporates colorful costumes, sets, dramatic lighting and music.

The Marionette Theatre of the Word, established in 1966, has performed at nearly 400 churches of many denominations throughout California and the country. Producer - Director Roland Sylvester is an internationally-known consultant on the use of puppets in church programs, and has appeared on a children's religious television series in Los Angeles during the past year.

Sylvester, and his wife who assists in the production, are members of the Los Angeles Guild of Puppetry, the Puppeteers of America, and Union Internationale de la Marionnette.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) You are easily distracted today and you'll try without much luck to get others to do things you should do for yourself.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Weigh your words before you voice them to a sensitive friend today or you may say something in jest she'll be offended by.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Persistence is a must for you today. Keep this in mind and you'll avoid the possibility of quitting just a mite too early.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) In any important discussion today, just stick to the facts. An oblique approach will both the job and confuse matters further.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Be wide awake in business dealings today or you may be left holding the bag. It won't contain half as much as for the guy with whom you're dickering.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) It's wise to look at both sides of a proposition, but today you could be so busy weighing alternatives you'll never make up your mind.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Don't try to be too clever today when trying to get others to do you favors. If they sense you're manipulating them, you'll be turned down.

This coming year your best chances for success will come from projects you personally supervise. Think carefully before you delegate authority.

WIN AT BRIDGE

have bid three hearts instead of three notrump.

Either of those bids would have led to his partner playing a cinch four-heart contract. South never thought of that because he was too busy telling North that he should have rebid his five-card heart suit. That is another symptom of acute notrumpitis. The sufferer is always in there blaming his unfortunate partner for his own misdeeds.

Ask the Jacobys
A New York reader wants to know what the odds are that North will hold at least five spades. North has just responded one spade to South's opening bid of one. If North follows the recommendations of the American Bridge Teacher's Association the odds are almost 2 to 1 that he has five spades since with 4-4 in either spades and hearts he is supposed to respond in the red suit.

There are two cures for notrumpitis. One is to quit playing bridge. The other is for the sufferer to try to find some other bid on all occasions before he bids notrump.

Neither seems to work. After South wound up one trick short at three notrump it never occurred to him that he might well have bid two hearts instead of one notrump and that he certainly should

Commentary

Bill Paterson

Bill Paterson is sports editor of the Concord Transcript.

Myths are easy to create. They're tenaciously difficult to break.

Take, for instance, the myth regarding athlete of the week selections.

Many coaches, athletes and parents are under the impression that those responsible for the selections spend long periods of feverish soul-searching to come up with the best choice.

Sorry, but you're in for a big shock. Take for instance the Fleeto Sports Award, sponsored by an Oakland company in San Francisco, Alameda and Contra Costa counties.

The selections are made for Alameda and Contra Costa Counties by the East Bay Prep Writers Association, a group of approximately a dozen writers representing newspapers as far north as Richmond and as far east as Antioch.

The San Francisco selections are directed by Examiner sports writer Lance Gilmer.

Fleto plays no part in the selections. It does, however, provide each athlete a T-shirt, certificate and trophy. This is all capped off by a gala banquet at the end of the year at Goodman Hall in Oakland.

Fleto picks up the tab for the athlete, his or her parents and coach. The Fleto winner is often asked to appear on a San Francisco radio station sports program during the week of selection.

With all this effort being put forth by Fleto, the East Bay Prep Writers should take their job a little more seriously. The writers — with a few exceptions — have been apathetic, imprecise and unfair in their selections.

The San Francisco writers have the habit of picking the same athlete several times. Balboa's talented basketball and track star Francois Wise, won the award four times while Mission sprinter Tequil Willis was picked three times, as was Wilson basketball player Barry Young.

In the East Bay, several Monte Vista and Granada athletes won the award on two occasions. Although the Fleto company has okayed the multiple selections, it seems superfluous to honor an athlete more than once. What purpose does it serve?

Everyone is aware that Wise and the others are outstanding athletes. Recognizing this more than once takes away the opportunity for another deserving athlete to win the award.

But this can not equal the failings of the East Bay Prep Writers. Those athletes in attendance at last week's second annual Fleto Sports Award dinner might be shocked to learn how they got there.

On numerous occasions, athletes have been picked on the basis of one or two votes. Sometimes there has been only one nominee — and this has often come, on the Contra Costa side, from a newspaper that has never been affiliated with the Prep Writers.

Things have been so bad that a couple of weeks, Times sports editors, who have tallied the vote, were given the dubious honor of making the choice alone.

The EBPW didn't treat the selections as a farce at the beginning of the high school year. But, as the seasons wore on, many of the writers wore off.

They stopped nominating and voting for athletes. Every now and then, one or two writers would call with the name of some one they wanted elected. Then they wouldn't be heard from for weeks.

It got to the point that only four members were voting on a regular basis. Often, unfamiliar with athletes outside their own coverage area, the hard-core group would nominate a local athlete who had no real chance to win the award.

Once a swimmer who had taken third place in a meet with other Alameda County athletes was put up for the award by a valley paper for lack of a more solid choice.

This isn't meant to downgrade athletes selected during the spring. All present at the banquet were outstanding performers.

But it's too bad they were led to believe they were receiving a true county-wide award of distinction. Why have things deteriorated so badly?

Much of the blame lies with Jim Carr of the Contra Costa Times, president of the EBPW. Besides a lack of leadership he has shown complete disinterest in taking part in the selections or the prep polls, another function of the EBPW.

Although he would often complain about the choices, he seldom, if ever, voted.

When it came time to compile the final East Bay baseball poll two weeks ago, Carr decided to postpone it until a final meeting at which an all-East Bay team would also be selected.

That was two weeks ago and there has been no meeting.

The public's interest in the all-star team and poll will have dwindled to nothing by the time the meeting is held — if, indeed, it is held.

Of course, one person can not take all the blame. Part of the problem rests with each sports writer. If the EBPW is to be a successful organization, each writer is going to have to make a commitment.

Oakland trades delayed by Kuhn

NEW YORK — Baseball Commissioner Bowie Kuhn held up Oakland's sales of the Blue to the New York Yankees and Joe Rudi to the Boston Red Sox Tuesday night — and the New York Times disclosed that the three players are still officially on the A's roster.

Charles O. Finley, the A's owner, decimated his three-time world championship team by selling Blue, a pitcher, to the Yankees for a reported $1.5 million and Fingers, also a pitcher, and Rudi, an outfielder, to the Red Sox for $1 million apiece.

Less than 24 hours after the deals, Kuhn sent a wire message to all 24 major league clubs which, the Times disclosed, said in part:

Anger eliminated in 3 sets

Soft-serving Marco Lucey put together a four-game win streak in the third set to eliminate Pleasanton's Matt Anger from the Northern California Tennis Association under-14 Sectional tournament, 6-4, 2-6, 6-3, yesterday at Castlewood Country Club.

Anger's biggest edge over Lucey, a much more powerful serve, was negated in the unusual 90-minute match. Serves did not, as sometimes happens, dominate the match. There was only one ace, by Anger, and one double-fault, also by Matt.

Adding to the demise of service were 16 broken serves out of the 27 games played. Nine came in a row at the outset of the first set when Lucey won by holding his serve in the tenth game, yielding just one point, putting it away with a towering lob that Anger turned into a too-long pop-up.

The loss fired Anger up, however, and he poured on the power in the first game of the second set to hold his serve for the first time. The key point came when Anger dove to tap an unreturnable dribbler in front of Lucey and earn rare applause from the several dozen spectators sprawled around the court-side lawn.

Both players held their serves through the next four games — then it was all Anger.

In the fifteenth game, he joined Lucey in a lob contest, but after the ball's trajectory had gradually flattened out, Anger would smash it by the San Francisco resident.

He then broke Lucey's serve again and held his own by forcing Lucey to launch long ground strokes with nothing behind them.

When Anger won the set in the next game, breaking Lucey's serve by banging his increasingly weak second ball past him time and again, it appeared the third set would be only a formality.

That impression remained until, with Anger up two games to one, Lucey started his rally.

While Anger seemed content to stay on the baseline, Lucey ruined his power-hitting plans by luring him towards the net with a tempting array of soft stuff. But, on consecutive game points, Lucey blew one past Anger and watched Matt swat the ball into the net.

With his back to the wall, Anger swept the eighth game of the set with well-placed passing shots. But after the hang-tough service break, Anger double-faulted on match-point.

However, Anger had better luck in the first round of the doubles matches. He teamed with Jim Heebner of Carmel to take a 6-1, 6-0 victory over Evan Gelleri and Steve Shaun.

In another singles match Greg Holmes of Danville defeated Guy Taylor of Walnut Creek, 6-1, 6-0. Today's competition begins at 8 a.m.

Don cagers breeze in summer opener

SAN LEANDRO — The winter game is getting a chance to thaw out with several local teams entered in high school-age summer basketball leagues and among the most ambitious is the Pleasanton.

Dons, a club primarily made up of Amador Valley High School students. After beating the Hayward Lancers, 55-45, at the Boys Club here yesterday evening at Amador at 7 p.m., the Dons will take to the court tonight in an exhibition game with the Fremont Warriors that heralds the arrival of the Pleasanton Recreation Department - Allied Brothers League.

Dubbed "The Valley" in the San Leandro league to avoid confusion with the San Lorenzo Dons, a group of Arroyo High School students, the local quint opened slowly yesterday evening and trailed by one at the half.

But after intermission, The Valley's balanced scoring attack quickly put the game out of reach of the Lancers, primarily composed of Tennyson students.

At the outset of the third quarter, The Valley took off on a 15-2 burst that put the outmanned Lancers, who had just seven players suited up while the Dons sported a dozen, into too large a hole to climb out of.

Chris Kearns scored a pair of hoops and Don Hall three points to lead the rally.

In the fourth quarter, Hayward made an abortive try at catching the Dons. A bucket and two free throws each by Bob Webster and Allan Joyner brought them to within eight.

When The Valley's Rick Howard countered with a hoop, Andre Cooper's free throw drew the Lancers back to within nine.

But Hayward crumbled after that as a traveling call on Webster and missed one-and-one opportunities by Jack Burns and Keith Britt opened the door for a four-point Don mini-rally that iced the opening contest.

Hall and Mike Hansen tied for The Valley's scoring lead with nine points each while Kearns and Chris DePrater added eight each. The Lancers' Allan Joyner led all scorers with 16.

Philly tops SF on Allen's hitting

PHILADELPHIA — Dick Allen, ending an 0-for-16 slump, batted in four runs with a third-inning single and an eighth-inning homer and Jim Kaat pitched a four-hitter as the Philadelphia Phillies beat the San Francisco Giants 6-1 Wednesday night.

Giants starter John Montefusco, 7-6, retired the heart of the Phillies' batting order with two on and none out in the first inning but couldn't repeat in the third.

Dave Cash opened the third with a single and moved to second on Larry Bowa's hit. Montefusco retired Mike Schmidt on a long fly, with both runners advancing, and got Greg Luzinski to foul out but Allen ripped a single to center, scoring both runners.

The Phillies made it 3-0 in the fifth without a hit. Bowa walked with one out and raced to third when Montefusco threw wildly on Schmidt's nubber toward first. Luzinski drove in the run with a sacrifice fly.

After Montefusco left for a pinch hitter in the sixth, the Phillier added a run in the seventh on Cash's triple, his third hit of the game, and Bowa's suicide squeeze bunt. Allen's homer off Gary Lavelle after a walk to Luzinski increased the lead to 6-1.

Diana plans to keep busy

Summer is a time when most high school track performers rest their weary legs and ignore major competition.

Such is not the case with ex-Granada star Diana Stohr. Stohr will be keeping busy in her favorite sport for two more months and will also her skills in an event she has never tried before.

Diana, the third place finisher in the girls' 880-yard run at the state meet two weeks ago, will run the 440-yard low hurdles at the Junior Olympics next month. She will also continue running the 880.

"I've never run any hurdle event before," the petite athlete said. "I just started practicing the event last week. I can get one foot over all right but I'm having problems with the other one."

Despite the fact the 440-yard lows is just a one-lap race Stohr feels there are other things more important than speed involved in it.

"You have to have a lot of form," she said. "Also endurance is very important in this type of a hurdle race."

Despite the fact she is trying the hurdle for the first time she still considers the 880 her best race.

Competing with the Berkeley Track Club Tuesday she ran a brilliant 2:13.4 anchor leg to give the East team second place in the two-mile relay at the National Junior Women's AAU meet at UCLA.

Berkeley was fifth when Diana got the baton but the ex-Matador star gradually closed the ground between her and the leaders.

"I ran the worst first lap I've ever had," she admitted. "But I came back strong in the second one. I really had a good kick."

As expected, the Los Angeles Track Club won the event.

Besides the Junior Olympics Stohr will also run in weekly all-comers meets at Diablo Valley and Chabot junior colleges.

"I'll probably run at DVC next week, not this week," she said. "I'm hoping they will have a girls' decathlon-like event there. If they do I'll compete in it."

If that event is held at DVC, Diana would have a good chance of winning it. Her versatility is well-known to East Bay Athletic League track fans. At the EBAL meet she set league marks in the 880, 440 and both relays. The following week at the 4-A meet she won both the 440 and 880 and ran legs on second place relay teams.

With all that activity during the regular season one would think Stohr has had her fill of track.

However, like any true competitive athlete Diana seems to like her work.

Any observer of the local prep track scene could tell you that.

ARE CONCRETE SWIMMING POOLS OBSOLETE?

Judge for yourself!

This is a SAN JUAN, fiberglass, one piece swimming pool being lowered into the prepared ground! A beautiful, full-sized pool with a permanently smooth, non-abrasive finish that algae simply cannot invade! Only one of the reasons why up to 90% of old fashioned cement pools' maintenance effort and expense can be eliminated.

The SAN JUAN POOL comes in several sizes (shown here, 16 by 34 feet); equipped as you wish and priced demonstrably fairer than a plaster/concrete pool. It's longer lasting, too, because fiberglass, 12 times stronger than concrete, is forever. Colorful, it never needs painting! Moulded in the plant in one piece, in one incredible process, the SAN JUAN has a structural, yet flexible strength that has withstood four major earthquakes. Its smooth finish makes contact a pleasure, not a scratch. Much faster, easier to install, before investing in any pool get the complete story, including color photos of local installations. Get the concrete pool story, too... it only makes ours better!

P.S. Off-season, winter prices now in effect! Save importantly.

Amador offers unique tree trimming class

PLEASANTON — The art of climbing trees is an essential skill taught in Ray Morton's class. He is the instructor of what is believed to be the only high school class graduating tree trimmers, or arborists, in the nation. The class is taught through the Amador Valley High School in Pleasanton with many of the "tree top classroom" sessions held in the East Bay Regional Park District's Sunol Regional Wilderness and Del Valle Regional Park. Morton emphasizes safety in his classes and in the four years he has been teaching the unique course, no one has suffered a serious injury.

He can also make the claim that during those same four years, some 35 or 40 students have graduated from the one-semester course and most are employed at salaries up to $1,000 a month. Students graduating with a "B" or better are almost sure of a well-paying job.

Learning to be a tree trimmer or arborist is an arduous undertaking. "Not everyone has the fortitude to take this course and 'stick it out,'" Morton stated. "You might as well forget about athletics for one semester or that outside job, for the class calls for four hours a day, three days a week — or a total of 175 hours for the semester."

Morton also noted that although "strength isn't necessary, the best tree trimmers are young, agile and with the special skills necessary for the job."

The real trial in Morton's class comes the second week when he sends his students up into the trees. "That's when some quit. They can't cope with the height," he explained. His grading system differs from that of a regular high school class, as does the course itself.

"If, by the time the course ends, a student can climb to 50 feet or better and has all the other requisite skills, they're eligible for an 'A.' They're 'high climbers.' Those who work below those heights competently probably will get a 'B,'" Morton explained.

Arborist students learn to make five rope splices, tie 25 knots ("How they tie knots and when they use them may mean the difference between safe work and a bad accident," Morton explained), principles of pruning landscape trees, safety and first aid, basic climbing techniques with rope and "tree spurs," lowering tree limbs with aids, chain saw operation, aerial basket or "cherry picker" operation, use of the wood chipper, and arboriculture as a vocation.

If the students satisfactorily complete the course, Morton awards them a "certificate for arboriculture."

The instructor also explained there is no such thing as a "tree surgeon" although at one time the name had currency and the firm which has its western headquarters in Livermore and provides much of the equipment for the classes is the historic Davey Tree Surgery company.

The firm also trained Morton and furnishes visiting lecturers.

The tree trimming course is funded and made possible through the Livermore and Amador school district's Regional Occupational Program (ROP).

Ray Morton's tree trimming students in "climbing saddles" and orange fluorescent vests: Jon Broshious, Mike Tolin, Pat Jones, Morton, John Archibald and Dave Jolliff. Tolin lives in Livermore and the others are from Pleasanton.

Morton pulls himself upward toward a tree limb where some pruning must be done. The tree trimming instructor explained strength isn't the prime necessity — it's agility, no fear of heights, and special skills you develop.

Construction lagging on two new VCSD parks

DUBLIN — Work on Valley Community Services District's two new parks is behind schedule, Parks Facilities Coordinator Jim Nelson told VCSD directors Tuesday night.

Two multi-use recreational parks, Dublin Sports Grounds on Dublin Boulevard and Athan Downs on Montevideo Drive in San Ramon, are currently under development.

Nelson said that generally the workmanship of Landco Corporation, Dublin Sports Grounds contractor, has been good. But he said "there just isn't enough of it."

Nelson said Landco began work 17 days into the 90-day construction period. "At most only a dozen men, usually only four, have been at work at one time," he said.

Sixty-five contract days have now elapsed, leaving only 25 days to complete Phase I construction. Landco has asked for a 30-day extension of the construction period.

Half of the extension time can be justified, Nelson said, due to delays caused by the removal of abandoned sewer lines the district did not know were on the site.

But Nelson said he did not favor the 30-day extension, and proposed instead that an additional 10 or 15 days be granted.

To date, 95 per cent of the site grading, drainage and concrete work have been completed.

Installation of the irrigation system is now in progress. Base rock for the parking lot has been installed and paving should begin this week.

Nelson said soil preparation and turf planting may start next week.

When complete the park will contain three soccer fields, five baseball diamonds and two softball fields. Almost eight acres will be set aside for open space, with picnic tables and barbecues available.

At Athan Downs in San Ramon work continues on site grading. Nelson said storm draining should begin this week.

He noted that 32 contract days have elapsed, with 68 days remaining. Nelson told directors the project is off to a "very slow start." He has asked Davey Tree Co., park contractor, to step up the pace of their work.

Davey Tree claims they have had difficulty obtaining drainage pipe due to the Bay Area warehousing strike, but has promised to try to complete the remaining stages rapidly.

Athan Downs will contain four soccer fields, four softball fields, a playground, eight acres of multi-use open space and a parking lot.

Proposals are now being solicited from landscape architects for complete working drawings on Boone Acres, the five-acre neighborhood park planned in San Ramon.

Nelson said he hopes the project can go out to bid in August.

Selection of playground equipment and park equipment is now under consideration.

Livermore planners asking less restrictive bike rule

LIVERMORE — The city code prohibiting bicyclists from riding along public streets when there is a parallel and separate bike path within 100 feet should be made less restrictive, the planning commission will recommend to the city council.

Commissioners studied the provision of the City Code requiring the use of a bike path at the request of Valley Spokesmen, an organized bicycling group.

"It was the conclusion of the planning commission that application of such a restriction should be at the option of the City rather than an arbitrary restriction for the reason that each bike route may have a different design and character of use and user," explained Planning Director George Musso in a memo prepared for transmittal to the council.

As an example, Musso noted that a separate bike path suitable for school traffic may not be suitable for an adult bicyclist traveling to the Lawrence Livermore Laboratory.

If the council adopts the planning commission's recommendation, wording of the City Code probably would be changed from "shall" be prohibited to "may" be prohibited when talking about preventing bicyclists from using the public streets when a parallel and separate bike path is within 100 feet.

In other business conducted at the commission meeting Tuesday night, commissioners:

- Approved an application of Corbett & Duke for a moving permit to move a house from 381 S. L Street (at the northwest corner of L and Fourth streets) to the southwest corner of S. L Street and College Avenue.

- Approved an application of B&D Plumbing, Inc., for a variance to permit the reduction in the required sideyard setbacks for two lots to be created at 1188 and 1192 Hillcrest Ave.

Livermore to restrict shopping hub traffic

LIVERMORE — Left turns from the Livermore Arcade Shopping Center (the new Safeway Store - Longs Drugs complex) onto P Street soon will be prohibited from 4 to 6 p.m. except on Sundays.

"No left turn" signs are expected to be posted at the P Street driveways in a few weeks and is part of an effort by the city to relieve automobile congestion at the shopping center during peak traffic hours.

According to a staff report, the city also has requested that six on-site parking stalls fronting the Safeway Store and adjacent to the P Street driveway be removed and replaced with an indented vehicular delivery or customer pick-up area.

The report also notes that the pending extension of Railroad Avenue between P Street and Murietta Boulevard also should help relieve the congested traffic situation at the complex.

EER EXPLAINED.

The easy way to figure out how to get the most efficient air conditioner for your money.

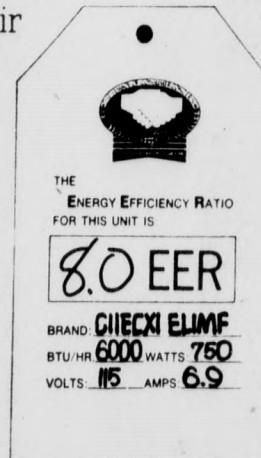

We're not encouraging you to buy a new or replacement air conditioner. But if you do, then get a unit that will give you the most cooling with the least electric use. That's an air conditioner with a high EER (Energy Efficiency Ratio). Here's how you determine the EER of a room air conditioner.

EER Simplified: All the information you need is shown on the unit. To get the EER, simply divide the cooling capacity (BTU/hr) by the watts. Like this: 6,000 BTU/hr ÷ 750 watts = 8.0 EER. EER numbers range from 4½ to 12. The higher the EER, the more efficient the air conditioner. PG&E recommends an EER of 7.5 or more for economy in room air conditioners, and an EER of 7 or more for central systems.

EER Smpler Yet: Air conditioner dealers displaying the "We Care" sign have room air conditioners already tagged with the EER rating. So look for the yellow tag and you won't have to do any figuring at all.

What a high EER means to you: A high EER means you're getting the most cooling comfort for your money. Some air conditioners use a lot less electricity than others for the same amount of cooling. A unit with an EER of 8.0, for example, uses 30% less electricity than one with an EER of 5.6. So look for a high EER. You'll cut your cooling costs. And you'll conserve energy, too.
